“Old homes, big trees, nature, animals, being outdoors in city or country – all are roots to my artistic inspiration and contentment. They bring the past to the present as I take my turn in the circle of life. Painting allows me to relive them and express how they make me feel.”

Ingrid's second solo show at the ARTS Project features subjects that are roots to her life, portrayed in oil and acrylic paintings. Her work is painted on site and indoors, just as it was during her first painting workshops in Aix-en-Provence, France where she was on sabbatical from Western University in 1995. A member of the Gallery Painting Group and the Lambeth Art Association, Ingrid's work has been shown widely in London and the surrounding area.

She welcomes you to share in her joy of painting at the ARTS Project from October 21 to November 1, 2014, Tuesdays to Saturdays, 12 – 5pm.
